

The Transfer

Chapter 3

Written by Natalie3991

The Transfer

Chapter 3

By Natalie3991

30/06/2023

(I'll leave the evening events of Alex and Jenny as the sex-bot to your imagination)

Jenny was still, unfortunately under the control of the pleasure-bot program and after the events she had to go through last night, with Lex testing out the pleasure-bot. Unbeknown to him, that he had put Jenny's actual mind into it, with Jenny being restricted by the pleasure-bots program, Jenny was unable to communicate with Lex to tell him what was happening. All Jenny could hope for, was that Lex would put her mind back into their maid bot before the countdown timer got to zero, so she could return to her own body.

Lex had taken the pleasure-bot (Jenny) back to the living room to sort out the removal and replacement of the pleasure-bots personalities. Lex had decided that he didn't want his friend having the ability of using the personality of his wife. So decided to replace it with a standard free, default one from the site.

Jenny looked on, helplessly as Lex brought up the web page and downloaded it. All that was left was to remove the Jenny personality. Lex connected the pleasure-bot to the cables leading to his laptop.

Jenny could instantly feel her mind being accessed as she watched in horror as Lex made a copy of her mind! Placing the files of Jenny's mind into a special folder on Lex's laptop. Jenny didn't feel any different, but she felt like she had just been mentally violated by her husband, who now had a copy of her actual mind!.

Lex then made another folder on his desktop and moved the Jenny personality (Jenny's actual mind) to it. With that Jenny's vision went blank and she felt like she was falling again. It didn't seem that long for Jenny until she felt the falling feeling stop, and her vision returned. Jenny was now back in their maid-bots body. The trouble was that Lex had spent most of the day trying to sort out the pleasure-bot, that he had left putting the Jenny personality back into their maid-bot until last. With Jenny's mind back where she should be, Lex had activated the default maid personality on their maid-bot, which gave Jenny a bit of time to assess her current situation.

Jenny just had to deal with being their maid-bot for the rest of the day, as it wouldn't be until 6am until the counter got down to zero and she would have her mind transferred back to her own body.

As Jenny let the program do its thing, she started to think about the copy of her mind that Lex now had copied. In one way, it was good that he had a back up of her, just in case. But on the other hand, he now had a copy of her mind that he could do whatever he wanted to, which wasn't part of Jenny's plan for the weekend.

Jenny was thinking about what she could try next? She certainly need to sort out the maid-bots programming, so she would at least able to move and communicate as her self while in the maid-bots body while under the default maid-bot setting.

Another thing running through Jenny's mind was, if she should tell Lex about the room in their basement? At least if he knew about it, she certainly wouldn't get into any unplanned trouble while her mind was transferred. But she kind of wanted to at least know a bit more about what else the room could do, before telling him, as she had only really scratched the surface of what the transfer room could do.

Suddenly the door bell rung, bringing Jenny out of her thoughts and back to her present situation. As she automatically walked to the door to answer it, she realised that it must be Lex's friend, coming to pick up his pleasure-bot. The maid program was in full effect as Jenny was just along for the ride again. As she answered the door the guy asked for Lex, which Jenny quickly went to inform Lex, that someone was at the door for him. She made her way into the living room, and noticed the pleasure-bot was back on its trolley, all ready to go. Lex informed their maid-bot (Jenny) to assist with taking it to the front door. As she started pushing the trolley she noticed something on Lex's laptop out of the corner of her eye. Which looked like women, but the web page also looked very similar to the maid-bot website, where they purchased their maid-bot from, which Jenny was currently occupying.

Jenny pushed the trolley to the front door, Lex and his friend passed conversation, where Lex pretty much explained that his friends bot was now fully functional again, and that he was glad he had managed to fix it before Jenny returned home. Lex's friend was very grateful that he had managed to get it working again, then proceeded to hand over a very thick brown envelope to Lex, which Jenny presumed was cash.

Lex closed the front door, then informed the house computer to start the standard maid-bot house cleaning schedule, so that the house would be nice and tidy for when Jenny returned in the morning. The maid-bot (Jenny) was then ordered by the house computer to complete the cleaning tasks, starting from the top level of their house, while Lex went back into the living room where his laptop was. Jenny really wanted to know what Lex was up too, but in her current state, she was going to have to wait until 6am tomorrow morning, when the timer would get to zero, and the transfer of her mind back into her body, would happen.

As the day went on Jenny pretty much zoned out, while the maid-bot program worked through the list from the house computer. It wasn't long until the maid-bot (Jenny) was cooking Lex his dinner in their kitchen, and Jenny's ears pricked up when she heard Lex chatting away on the phone. It was only the last part of a conversation that Jenny actually got to hear, as Lex entered the room. "Ok, so that looks like it would be possible then, I will have to run it by my wife, later this week, to make sure she agrees with everything. I think she will like it, I'll call you up again once i know for sure, then we can proceed with everything or cancel it". With that Lex hung up the phone and looked at the meal on the table and then glanced over to the maid-bot and thank her, for making such a lovely dinner. Jenny on the other hand was on the edge of her seat, after hearing what Lex had just said!, she really wanted to know what Lex had planned!.

While Lex was eating, the maid-bot (Jenny) washed up. After Lex had finished, he decided that he would swap the maid-bots personality to the Jenny personality, to test what her reaction on the potential purchase, he had in mind would be. Once the maid-bot (Jenny) had finished washing up his plate. Lex ordered the maid-bot (Jenny) to activate the Jenny personality (which was her actual mind) , Jenny was ecstatic that she now had a bit more control of the maid-bots body she was currently in, even though she wasn't fully in control of some of her actions due to still being connected to the house computer.

Lex asked the maid-bot (Jenny) to take a seat in the living room, Lex sat opposite her and began to talk to her, "So Jenny, I wanted to run something past you, to see what you think? I've had a chat with the company, that made our maid-bot, and I wanted to see what you thought about a potential second maid-bot purchase? This one though might be a bit more expensive, but I think it will be worth it, considering what it will be capable of....do you have any questions or do you want me to continue?".....

Jenny was a little overwhelmed, but she wanted to know how much it was going to cost, but thought better of asking, as she knew it was probably going to be a lot more expensive than their current maid-bot, which she was currently occupying. Jenny responded with, please continue, I will ask my questions once you have explained everything"...Lex knew the real Jenny wouldn't of responded like that, so carried on explaining, "ok, so this bot is the company's top end model, after realising that my wife had created he own personality for you, I thought I would indulge her little kink a bit. This bot has the ability to have a synthetic skin that can look almost human like and has the added feature of having the exoskeleton being altered by the user, to basically look like anyone you want it to. And it has the ability to function without the need of the house computer if required, which could be really handy for making the bot run errands outside of the home. It also has the ability to behave more like the personality that is added to it, with an in built A.I helping it to behave more like that personality, which over time would behave more or less the same as the actual person. And i know, that this all sounds amazing, but also super expensive, but if we did a part exchange with our current maid-bot, it would cost us less and i think it would be really useful in and out of the home...so thats everything, what do you think?"....

Jenny was a little taken back, but at the same time she was a little bit more interested, considering the room that was down in the basement, her mind was on overdrive over all the possibilities she could try out. With that Jenny responded with, " I do love our maid-bot, and it is still very new. But an upgraded model would save us so much time, from doing menial things, like the shopping and all the boring things that need to get done away from the home. I think we should certainly look into getting an upgraded model, as long as it doesn't break the bank. Lex's eyes lit up with the response from the maid-bot, not understanding that it was actually Jenny's actual response (which would most likely be repeated tomorrow word for word).

Lex thanked the maid-bot's Jenny personality for answering his proposal, before ordering her to revert back to the default maid-bot personality. Lex then ordered the maid-bot to finish any outstanding tasks, that the house computer had asked it to do and once complete to return to the charging station.

Jenny's mind was all over the place, with the proposal that Lex had just informed her about, unbeknown to him that he was actually having the conversation with his wife, and not the Jenny personality of their maid-bot.

The maid-bot performed the outstanding task's set out by the house computer, while Jenny was just along for the ride again. Jenny had so many things running through her mind from the events of her weekend as their maid-bot.

About 11pm, their maid-bot had finished all of its tasks for the day and started to make its way to the charging station. Jenny noticed that Lex was still up and watching TV in their living room as her maid-bot body continued walking.

Jenny had been very clever with her timings for the weekend, knowing that their maid-bot only needed about 5 hours of charging, which would mean she would be unplugged from the charging station just in time for her reverse transfer to happen.

As soon as their maid-bot entered the charging station, it connected the power and data cable to the port on the side of its neck. As soon as the cable was connected, Jenny started to feel a little bit weird. It dawned on her that the house computer now had a direct link to their maid-bot and her actual mind. What she was experiencing was the house computer analysing and updating their maid-bots operating system. Jenny was completely at the mercy of the house computer at this point, as her maid-bot body was in a 'stand by' mode while charging.

Jenny could literally feel the house computer checking all of her mind, until she heard something from their house computer that chilled her to the core.

"Maid-bot data bank has been updated with the new knowledge and owners requested orders and interactions gained from today....maid-bot's, Jenny personality has been digitally backed up, due to owners recent interactions.... charging will be complete at 4:31am...daily schedule will now be uploaded".

Jenny was in a state of shock!, not only had Lex copied her mind, now the house computer had also copied it!. Jenny decided that given her current predicament, she would have to try and sort out the copies of her mind, once she was back in her actual body. As her maid-bot eyes closed and went into charging mode, Jenny just started to count down her remaining time and try to plan out, how she was going to sort out these copies of her mind and how she was going to find out more about the new bot, Lex had proposed.

It didn't feel like a lot of time had passed for Jenny, but she noticed that their maid-bot had activated and she could now see again. As the maid-bot unplugged the charging cable from its neck, Jenny could feel the house computer activate the morning schedule for their maid-bot, which the first tasks were to prepare breakfast for Lex and check the post.

As their maid-bot started walking to the front door, to see if any post had been delivered, the maid-bot walked past the living room, Jenny caught a glimpse of Lex asleep on the sofa. Jenny only had minutes left to try and come up with a plan of getting out of their basement, without Lex, or their maid-bot noticing.

No sooner did she start to work out a plan, Jenny's sight went black and she started to feel herself falling, as the reverse transfer had begun.....To be continued.